Dear Chairman Aderholt, Ranking Member DeLauro, Chairwoman Baldwin, and Ranking Member Capito:

The 43 undersigned organizations and communities working to promote the health of all individuals urge you to provide at least $79.3 million in the fiscal year (FY) 2027 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) Racial and Ethnic Approaches to Community Health (REACH) program. Specifically, we request $51.3 million for CDC's core REACH grant program and fund $28 million for its affiliated program Good Health and Wellness in Indian Country (GHWIC). These programs support important locally-led efforts to improve health and well-being and reduce healthcare spending.

The REACH program, founded in 1999, is a community-driven approach to reducing rates of chronic disease for groups experiencing disproportionately high chronic disease rates. REACH grantees, which include community-based organizations, universities, local health departments, tribal organizations, and cities, develop and implement practices and provide resources to communities to identify and implement solutions to improve health outcomes. REACH grantees plan and carry out locally tailored programs to address the root causes of chronic disease in rural, urban and suburban communities.

REACH has been a cost-effective CDC program using evidence-based community-level strategies to drive success. Key REACH outcomes during the previous REACH grant period (October 2018 to September 2023) include:

- More than 2,000,000 additional people have access to healthier foods;
- More than 1,000,000 people are working in settings with new tobacco-free policies;
- Over 1,000,000 additional people live or work in communities with updated healthy nutrition standards;

- Approximately 1,000,000 people are benefiting from breastfeeding support programs; and
- Over 40,000 people have been linked to community-based services by their health care providers.

American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) populations bear a disproportionate burden of the leading causes of death and disability compared to other racial and ethnic groups. Since FY 2017, Congress has set aside a portion of REACH funding to support the Good Health and Wellness in Indian Country (GHWIC) non-add line. This funding line supports tribal cooperative agreements that improve health outcomes for AI/AN communities, through the Healthy Tribes program, which includes GHWIC, Tribal Practices for Wellness in Indian Country, and the Tribal Epidemiology Centers Public Health Infrastructure.

We are urging Congress to provide at least $79.3 million for the REACH program in the FY 2027 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill. $51.3 million for the core REACH program would allow CDC to fund an additional 7 REACH recipients; and $28 million for GHWIC would expand Tribal Epidemiology Centers for Public Health Infrastructure and continue the program’s important work.

Thank you for your consideration of this request and your support for working to eliminate chronic diseases in communities across the country.

Sincerely,
